Course Goal: The goal of this course is to ground students in the area of human information interaction. This foundations course is essential for understanding information users and communities, and will be utilized by students during their program of study and into their professional lives to develop, evaluate, and improve upon information systems, organizations, and services.

Learning Outcomes:

Upon completion of this course students will be able to:

1. Identify, analyze, and assess the information needs of diverse individuals, communities and organizations, and consider how to respond to those needs through the design, provision and assessment of information resources, services and systems. [1.1]
2. Apply knowledge of information technologies and resources to information needs and interactions. [1.3]
3. Reflect in a critical and informed manner on individual and institutional information practices. [1.4]
4. Enhance interpersonal and written communication skills. [2.1]
5. Assess, select, and employ communication strategies based on the nature of the communicative goals and audience. [2.2]
6. Collaborate effectively with peers and the teaching team through course assignments and in-class activities. [3.1]
7. Understand and apply relevant library and information science literature and search tools to
8. address information needs, questions and issues in information interaction. [4.1]

Course Topics:
- Overview of human-information interaction
- Constructs, models, theories, and approaches in human-information interaction
- Information needs
- Information sources and channels, including digital search tools

- Strategies for interacting with information (e.g., browsing, searching, encountering)
- Information needs, behaviors and seeking of individuals, groups, organizations and communities
- Assessment and evaluation of information needs, seeking and use
- Human-information interaction and the design of services, programs and systems

PRE or COREQUISITE:

MLIS and Dual students: LIBR 508, LIBR 509. Core courses in the MLIS program can only be taken by students registered in the MLIS program.

Format of the course: This is an in-person course delivered through a combination of lectures, assigned readings, class discussions and activities, and individual and group work.

Estimated number of weekly hours students should dedicate to this class (preparation activities + class activities): 10 hours

Required and Recommended Reading:
There is no course textbook. Readings in the form of journal articles, book chapters and conference papers will be assigned weekly and will be available from the UBC Library through Canvas via the Library Online Course Resources (LOCR) application.

Supplementary Texts: A number of excellent general texts on human information behaviour and interaction may be useful for supplementary reading and for assignments. Some of the required readings are drawn from these texts.

Assignment Descriptions (Brief)

1. Information Exploration and Review Report (1200 words)
   The purpose of this assignment is to apply existing and newly gained knowledge of the information and media landscape to find and make use of topical information in various genres and media. The assignment includes several components: identification of a small set of materials on a given topic; a summary and critical assessment of those materials; reflection on personal skills and knowledge gaps; and, structure, clarity and appropriate citation in the written report. This assignment will serve as an introduction to writing using social science disciplinary conventions.

2. Search Task Assignment (1500 words)
   The purpose of this assignment is to gain apply knowledge of information systems and search tools to address complex search tasks, taking into account the information needs and context of a client. You will be provided with a list of multi-faceted search tasks and client personas and asked to select one from the list for this assignment. The submitted report includes a rationale and documentation of your search strategy, a summary of the results, and a reflection on the process and outcome.

3. Information Services Design Project
   The purpose of this project is to design an information resource, system or service for a specific user community. This could take the form of: a tutorial, program, workshop, subject guide, website, app, finding aid, online community, etc. You will work in groups of 3 people to decide what you are designing, who it is for, and the mode through which it will be delivered (in person, on the web via a library portal or YouTube, etc.).
   - Proposal: 750 words
   - Presentation – in class in poster format
   - Final Report: 3000-4000 words

Course Schedule (subject to change)
*weekly readings will be assignment and full information provided in the Canvas course site.

Week	Date	Topic	Assignments and Exercises
1	Sept13	Introduction to the course and to human information interaction
2	Sept 20	Information storage and retrieval systems; bibliographic databases and citation management
3	Sept 27	Search skills and strategies I	Assignment 1 due (end of week) In class: project team formation exercise
4	Oct 4	Search skills and strategies II
	Oct 11	No Class – Thanksgiving Holiday

5	Oct 18	Information sources: genre, media and evaluation	Design Project Proposal due
6	Oct 25	Information services I: human information needs; intermediation and negotiation	In-class: search knowledge self-assessment (ungraded)
7	Nov 1	Information services II: trends in information service provision	In-class: search intermediation exercise (ungraded)
8	Nov 8	Information services III: design of user-centred & community-oriented services	Assignment 2 due
9	Nov 15	Topics in HII I: emotion, Information avoidance, and trauma
10	Nov 22	Topics in HII II: reading, learning and exploration
11	Nov 29	Topics in HII III: sharing and social media
12	Dec 6	Presentation session	Assignment 3 Project Presentations (poster session format)

Attendance:

Attendance is expected in all class meetings. If you know you are going to be absent you are asked to notify the instructor beforehand if at all possible. The instructor may choose to assign extra material in lieu of missed class time.

Evaluation: All assignments will be marked using the evaluative criteria given on the iSchool web site.
- Students experiencing specific difficulties in meeting deadlines are invited to discuss the possibility of an extension with the instructor, preferably well before the deadline.
- Penalties in grading may be applied to late assignments, unless an extension is agreed upon.

Required Materials:
The course materials are all available electronically through the Canvas course management site and the UBC Library at no extra cost to students. In addition, students may require access to Microsoft Office or compatible software, and a PDF reader in order to make use of course materials. Students are encouraged to familiarize themselves with a citation management application. Free options are RefWorks, Zotero or Mendeley (https://guides.library.ubc.ca/c.php?g=707700&p=5037595).

Academic Concession: If you miss marked coursework for the first time (assignment, exam, presentation, participation in class) and the course is still in-progress, speak with the instructor immediately to find a solution for your missed coursework. Any concessions that will result in a change to the student record (such as late withdrawal from the course) will be referred to the Faculty of Graduate and Postdoctoral Studies for evaluation. If this is not the first time you have requested concession or classes are over, please consult the Faculty of Graduate and Postdoctoral Studies' webpage on academic concession, and then contact me where appropriate.

Policies and Resources to Support Student Success: UBC provides resources to support student learning and to maintain healthy lifestyles but recognizes that sometimes crises arise and so there are additional resources to access including those for survivors of sexual violence. UBC values respect for the person and ideas of all members of the academic community. Harassment and discrimination are not tolerated nor is suppression of academic freedom. UBC provides appropriate accommodation for students with disabilities and for religious and cultural observances. UBC values academic honesty and students are expected to acknowledge the ideas generated by others and to uphold the highest academic standards in all of their actions. Details of the policies and how to access support are available here (https://senate.ubc.ca/policies-resources-support-student-success)

Academic Integrity: The academic enterprise is founded on honesty, civility, and integrity. As members of this enterprise, all students are expected to know, understand, and follow the codes of conduct regarding academic integrity. At the most basic level, this means submitting only original work done by you and acknowledging all sources of information or ideas and attributing them to others as required. This also means you should not cheat, copy, or mislead others about what is your work. Violations of academic integrity (i.e., misconduct) lead to the breakdown of the academic enterprise, and therefore serious consequences arise and harsh sanctions are imposed. For example, incidences of plagiarism or cheating may result in a mark of zero on the assignment or exam and more serious consequences may apply when the matter is referred to the Office of the Dean. Careful records are kept in order to monitor and prevent recurrences. A more detailed description of academic integrity, including the University's policies and procedures, may be found in the UBC Calendar: Student Conduct and Discipline. Academic misconduct includes cheating, plagiarism, and self-plagiarism http://www.calendar.ubc.ca/vancouver/index.cfm?tree=3,54,111,959 (§7)

Academic Accommodation for Students with Disabilities: Academic accommodations help students with a disability or ongoing medical condition overcome challenges that may affect their academic success. Students requiring academic accommodations must register with the Centre for Accessibility (previously known as Access & Diversity). The Centre will determine that student's eligibility for accommodations in accordance with Policy LR7: Accommodation for Students with Disabilities (Joint Senate and Board Policy). Academic accommodations are not determined by your instructors, and instructors should not ask you about the nature of your disability or ongoing medical condition, or request copies of your disability documentation. However, your instructor may consult with the Centre for Accessibility should the accommodations affect the essential learning outcomes of a course.

Other Course Policies as Relevant:

Contact: Students are invited to communicate directly with the instructor via email, or to drop into Office Hours if questions arise. If using email, please note the following:
- I receive a high volume of email and am unlikely to respond immediately or on the weekend. If I have not replied within 3 days, you are invited to send a polite reminder.
- If the question is best handled in a conversation, we can set a meeting time via email. Phone or Zoom can be requested as alternatives to face to face meetings.
